Second Sunday of Easter (Divine Mercy Sunday)

Alleluia, He is risen!

Mercy! A plea made by many soldiers when battle was done hand-to-hand, and found on the lips of many sinners through the years.

Mercy, St. John Paull II said, is love's second name. It is love encountering poverty,
injustice, suffering, and sin,
both corporal and spiritual.

Divine Mercy is God's response to our poverty,
injustice, suffering, and sin.
All that Jesus does for us and our salvation is mercy. We receive such a wondrous gift when we partake in worship at His suffering on the cross, made present to us in the Blessed Sacrament of the Eucharist.

St. Maria Faustina
promoted devotion to Divine Mercy throughout the 1930's until her death of tuberculosis. She said there are five ways to celebrate and live Divine Mercy in our lives, represented by the
acronym FINCH:

Feast of Mercy
Image of Divine Mercy
Novena to Divine Mercy
Chaplet
Hour of Great Mercy.

More on these in the days
and years to come.

Three ways to live Divine Mercy today, simply by saying our ABC's:
Ask for Mercy
Be Merciful in deed and word.

Completely trust Jesus

God does not force us to do anything; he waits. So ASK! Ask to have that infinite ocean of mercy
poured upon you.

Mercy is compassion that has grown arms, so in word and deed BE merciful to those around you.

"Jesus, I trust in you."
Completely trust his grace, that as you rise from good to better in the service of our God and Lord, he is here to help you.

Regional Divine Mercy Sunday (April 3rd): Events at St. Peter & Paul Church in Seneca are as follows: We will gather in their Parish Hall for Opening Prayers at 3:00 PM: We will then have a Procession to the Church. The Chaplet of Divine Mercy will be sung in Church, After which there will be Benediction and Closing. After the events, there will be a Reception in the Parish Hall.

During all this time, there will be area priests hearing Confessions.

You may receive a Plenary Indulgence if you:

- 1) attend these events,
- 2) go to Confession within 20 days of the event,
- 3) go to Eucharistic Communion that day, or the days after
- 4) pray for the intentions of our Supreme Pontiff.

Marriage Minute

“Peace be with you.” Jesus offers peace this Divine Mercy Sunday. The peace of Jesus is different than the peace that the world promises. Peace is not simply an absence of war, although that would be nice. The promise of Jesus is a peace that surpasses all understanding, a peace of the soul. The pathway to this peace is forgiveness. In the same way that Jesus passed through the locked doors and offered his Apostles peace, he wants to pass through the locked doors of our hearts and broken relationships that are erected through sin, and give us the gift of interior peace. We participate in this peace in two ways in our families. First, we always have the gift of peace that comes through Sacramental Reconciliation. Second, when we use the words, “I forgive you” with our spouse and children, and teach them to use the same words, we allow Jesus to bring his gift of peace into our family life. This Easter Season, and especially in this year of mercy, let us be generous in seeking God’s forgiveness in Confession, offering forgiveness in our family relationships, and praying that more forgiveness will be prevalent throughout the world.

Reflecting On Sunday's Readings

Easter has come, the stone has been rolled away, the work of salvation finished! Now it is time to receive marching orders, now is the time for us to assume the mission. In all of this week's readings we have some aspect of empowerment for mission; the Holy Spirit is given, the Word is sent, the disciples have been imbued with miraculous power. Why? So that they might go forth into the world with the message of salvation even as Jesus went forth into the world; "As the Father has sent me, even so I send you." The story is told of an imaginary conversation that took place between St. Michael and Jesus after his ascension into heaven. St. Michael asked, "Jesus, now that you have returned to heaven what are your plans for reaching the world with the Good News?" Jesus replied, "I've given the task to my disciples." St. Michael, knowing that the disciples were "unlearned and ignorant" people, asked, "What is your back-up plan if they fail?" Jesus replied, "I have no back-up plan!" And so it is, Jesus fully entrusted the task of world evangelization to us, his Church. When Jesus appeared to the Church he gave them peace, he gave them purpose, and he gave them power—and he gave them a mission. We believe and have just recently celebrated that we too were there at the cross, fully included in the saving work of Christ. It is essential that we understand that we were also there, fully included in the commission which Christ gave to his followers. If we profess our inclusion in the first truth and deny our inclusion in the second truth, we deceive ourselves. Full experience of the saving work of Christ propels believers to willingly participate in the mission of Christ. It (salvation) is the cause that brings about the effect; (a desire to share the Good News). If there is no urgency or willingness to participate in the mission we must question whether we have fully experienced and understood the gift of salvation. In Pope Paul VI's words, "It is unthinkable that a person should accept the Word and give himself to the kingdom without becoming a person who bears witness to it and proclaims it in his turn." (Evangelii Nuntiandi, 24) Thomas gives us some great insight into the chemistry of believing. He did not say, "I cannot believe," but rather, "I will not believe." He had more evidence than we do but he willed to not believe. Consequently, Jesus sought Thomas, offered evidence of his resurrection, and invited him to conversion: "Do not be faithless but believe." And Thomas did believe. In like manner Jesus commissions us to go forth into our world to offer nonbelievers the opportunity to believe and experience conversion. "Adult faith is clearly and explicitly rooted in a personal relationship with Jesus lived in the Christian community. 'The Christian faith is, above all, conversion to Jesus Christ, full and sincere adherence to his person and the decision to walk in his footsteps.' Our understanding of the person and the way of Jesus continues to grow by our meditation on the word of God, by prayer and sacrament, by our efforts to follow Jesus' example, and by the sure guidance of the Church's teachings." (Our Hearts Were Burning Within Us, 55) The responsibility is ours, we cannot and should not attempt to shirk it. "To the question, 'why mission?' we reply with the Church's faith and experience that true liberation consist in opening oneself to the love of Christ. In him, and only in him, are we set free from all alienation and doubt, from slavery to the power of sin and death. ... Mission is an issue of faith, an accurate indicator of our faith in Christ and his love for us. "Those who are incorporated in the Catholic Church ought to sense their privilege and for that very reason their greater obligation of bearing witness to the faith and to the Christian life as a service to their brothers and sisters and as a fitting response to God." (Mission of the Redeemer, 11)
