Dear Kindergarten families,

I hope you all are having a wonderful and blessed start to our new year! Thank you all SO very much for all the thoughtful Christmas presents you and your children gave to me! It really made my Christmas extra special! Thank you, too, for all your help and donations brought in to make our Christmas party so much fun!

We have had great start to our new year in class! Your children are all doing very well getting back into the swing of things. In fact, I was very happy to see a 41% increase in letter and letter sound recognition after doing an assessment this week! That is SO exciting! 😊

They are all doing very well with our new math unit on addition and patterning! We are starting to focus on beginning sound blends in language arts such as bl, st, tr etc. We are enjoying our science and social studies units which are currently centered on animals in winter and/or Arctic animals, and learning how to best protect ourselves against germs.

There is so much more learning that I could list, but suffice it to say that your children are all eager and excellent learners! 😊

Blessing to you and yours,

Ms. Jones

This week's "Fun Work"!

Next week, we will continue our science focus on animals in winter. We will be focusing on how animals survive in the winter as well as how we can help them. Please send in a pine cone (or more to share if you have plenty available) with your child on Monday. We will be making pine cone bird feeders! 😊
