Coleman is Alive and Well!

In light of the recent announcements from the Archdiocese with regards to the closing of St. Joseph's School, we wanted to dispel any rumors that are circulating about Coleman.

JOHN A COLEMAN CATHOLIC HIGH SCHOOL is not closing!!! We are alive and thriving every day. We are independent of the Archdiocese. We are the only private Catholic high school in Ulster County.

We are very proud of our dedicated faculty and we have an outstanding group of students. We ask that if you hear this rumor, please assure the person that Coleman will not be closing, If anyone has questions, please contact our Principal, Jim Lyons for further updates.

As projected several years ago by the census and school wide focus group, student population in Ulster County was projected to decline throughout the region. We have maintained our percentage and do not want these rumors to affect or threaten our enrollment.

We maintain that LEARNING IS DIFFERENT
